held a comfortable lead in the polls throughout the campaign, and made almost no campaign appearances to avoid events that could spread the coronavirus.  Moments after the speech's release on Facebook and Twitter, the two social media companies flagged the video.
Facebook noted that Biden had been declared the winner of the election, while Twitter warned users that the fraud claims Trump made in the video were disputed.  Since Biden was declared president-elect, Trump's social media posts have been repeatedly flagged, a fact that hasn't stopped him from making them. Central to his argument that he was robbed is his apparent belief that while voter fraud was not new, especially in cities like Philadelphia and Detroit, this year it skyrocketed due to the increase in mail-in voting.  This colossal expansion of mail-in voting opened the floodgates to massive fraud, he claimed.  Although all the key swing states where Trump claims victory have certified their results in favor of Biden, the president continued to insist that he would somehow come up with enough votes to overturn those results. Of Wisconsin, for instance, he said: We will have far more, many times more, than the 20, 000 votes needed to overturn the state.  Trump's campaign has already paid $3 million for a partial recount in Wisconsin. The results increased Biden's lead there.
