Titleist 915 D2 Driver Sale Thomas has now won four of his first 74 events, which equates to a 5.4 percent winning percentage. That is, well, it's outrageous historically. Up there with the likes of Dustin Johnson and Jason Day and not far behind Jordan Spieth and Phil Mickelson. And Thomas hasn't even hit the meat of his career year.

Ping Rapture V2 Sale So a career Grand Slam in this era to go along with 25 or more PGA Tour wins is probably the equivalent of something better than what Phil Mickelson has done. And Mickelson is a top-10 golfer ever.

TaylorMade SpeedBlade Irons Fowler has three PGA Tour wins, but no major championships. His closest call came at the 2014 PGA Championship when McIlroy bullied his way to the podium. His Players Championship was spectacular, but an up-and-down 2016 when he should have really been settling into the prime of his career leaves questions. This year will go a long way in answering what kind of legacy Fowler will leave.
