The story when Honeys entered in China with dramatic. Once a time, the proprier of Honeys on business in Shanghai, while his original intention is not to investigate the Chinese market, but he determined to enter the Chinese market on that day. In January of 2006, Honeys opened its first store in Shanghai. Uo to February of 2007, there are 29 stores of Honeys in China. Among the stores, there are 25 chain stores and 4 franchised outlets. What a rapid speed it is! While as present situation, there is a long way to go for the stores in China than those in Japan.

The first difference is the area of store. The average Japanese Honeys shops with an area of 230 square meters, while in China, its reputation is still far from prominent in Japan. The following difference is the ways to display. When the stores in China is smaller than in Japan,ugg boots black friday deals, while the number of clothes is the same, you can image how can the small store display all the products. The last difference is the level of management. Branch company and the headquarter use the same set of information systems by network, but there is a gap between their application level.

Honeys is founded in the northeastern Japan island Fukushima. The proprier was graduated from Waseda University in his early years. He returned his hometown to carry on the family sewing industry after working in television. However, with the change of dress habit, the need and market of hat gradually be atrophic, so the proprier began to be busy running between Tokyo and Fukushima to do clothing sales. He took advantage of the district difference between price and style to do his business. In 1985, he opened a factory and began to open to processing.
