The only (important) person beating the drum for a ball that don't go 550 yards on impact is Jack Nicklaus. At some point, others will join him. It might not be in 2017, but it will happen (and I think it should). Golf can be great when 300 yards off the tee is the max (not the norm). In fact, for a lot of courses currently constructed, it's probably better.
